

A Lasting Tale

Dimity Brassil & the Story of A Lasting Tale.

Dimity Brassil first recorded her mum's life story in 2018. She was spurred into action following the death of both her father and sister in a relatively short period. Dimity sat down with her mum, Anne, and captured her voice telling her story.

Dimity and Anne worked together to create A Lasting Tale. Little did they know they would create a movement empowering older Australians to share their life stories with their own loved ones.

Five years later and A Lasting Tale has 40 professional journalists recording private audio life stories for families Australia-wide. We have recorded over 1,600 humble yet heroic life stories of everyday people.

A Lasting Tale has a free mobile app and works with retirement villages, palliative providers, libraries and community organisations. We also run specialist life story intergenerational programs in aged care.

Dimity was a 2023 AgriFutures Rural Women's Award NSW/ACT State Finalist.

Anne is 90, lives in Wagga Wagga, and is still telling a tall tale or two!

Dimity speaks on

- Life wisdom of the elderly and dying.
- How the very old can teach us all.
- Creating intergenerational kindness.
- Story-sharing between elderly and teenagers.
- Story-telling to prepare for end of life.
- How to create your own life stories.
- Advocacy for our regional and rural elderly.

Watch Morning Show interview

Contact Dimity
0466810644

dimity@alastingtale.com
www.alastingtale.com
@alastingtale

A
Lasting
Tale

A Lasting Tale is a professional interview service for people with a lifetime of stories to share.

Through detailed research, friendly interviews and high-quality audio production, we create private histories of Australians that keep their voices alive.

Get in touch

Call 1300 527 846

Email hello@alastingtale.com

www.alastingtale.com

 @alastingtale  @alastingtale